SLATE 2000 HOUSING

Due the slate 2000 giving our clients a true broken bond traditional slate finish we have been specified on many housing projects where traditional tiles and slates have been removed and replaced with the slate 2000.

We have been used not just because of the slate 2000 great looks, but because the slate 2000 offers the client great speed of installation, 5 times quicker than traditional materials, with only 1/7 the weight, generating less load onto the existing roof structure and the building foundations. It is a cost-effective solution compared to traditional materials.

Many hundreds of houses have been fitted with the incorrect materials through out the years due to no alternative being available, now with the Slate 2000 being BBA approved to 12 degrees we can give our social and private home providers a roofing system that gives an indistinguishable slate finish, with superior performance to traditional materials with our 0.9mm range giving a strong and secure lightweight roofing system. Making it the perfect choice for a wide range of housing types from Non-traditional housing to flat to pitch roof conversions over existing blocks of maisonettes and flats to replacement of existing traditional materials.
